

This New Place Called Home

This new place called home,
wasn't easy at first.
So different from back home,
like a strange universe.
Desperate to leave,
for so many reasons.
Especially the weather.
Too many cold seasons.

Learning to adapt.
New customs and traditions.
Living in small rooms,
and cramped conditions.
A concrete jungle,
far from the sea.
No idea how life
in this place would be.

But we persevered,
despite the comforts we left behind.
Going back to the Caribbean
was always on our minds.
Through good and bad times,
we nurtured our new dome,
and with time we embraced
this new place called home.

© Samantha Rodgers